

LONDON BOROUGH OF BROMLEY

STATEMENT OF EXECUTIVE DECISION

The Portfolio Holder for Education, Councillor Stephen Wells has made the following executive decision:

TRANSFER OF THE ADULT EDUCATION SERVICE

Reference Report:

Transfer of the Adult Education Service (Education), 06/11/2012 Education Policy Development and Scrutiny Committee

Decision:

That the proposal to recommend future use of the Education Development Centre site for educational purposes be agreed in principle.

Reasons:

The London Borough of Bromley's Corporate Operating Principles define the Council as an organisation based around four core principles: Member-led; delivering Value for Money; supporting independence; and efficient and non-bureaucratic.

Recent changes to the strategic management of Bromley Adult Education College and future plans for school workforce development and staff training at the college would support the Council to achieve the principles of delivering value for money by bringing together separate services into an efficient joined-up service for adult education, workforce development and employee training.

By relocating remaining staff and functions based at the Education Development Centre to alternate sites including the Widmore and Bromley Civic Centre sites, the Education Development Centre site would be released for educational purposes with additional savings realised on premises costs.

The proposed decision was scrutinised by the Education PDS Committee on 6th November 2012 and the Committee supported the proposal.
